October 12th, 2010: Valparaiso, IN

Kids Alive, an international orphan rescue ministry based in Valparaiso, IN is excited about a new partnership with two Christian artists, Becky Wright, and Newsboys. Both artists are excited to join their passion for orphans and hurting people with the worldwide outreaches of Kids Alive.

Newsboys have helped shape the face of modern Christian rock music in their twenty year career, touring the world and selling over 6 million records. Their ongoing mission of building homes in the impoverished Baja Peninsula is a perfect fit with their new Kids Alive partnership. Watch the video with their new release "Born Again" at their website to get a taste.

Kids Alive has simultaneously partnered with award-winning Christian singer/songwriter Becky Wright. Both Kids Alive and Becky share a passion for orphaned and abandoned children. Becky's latest release, "Call Me Loved", the first release from the upcoming Album, "The Heart of Adoption", is the heart-cry of the orphan, foster child, the forgotten, abandoned, and abused child to belong in a loving Christian family.

Kids Alive has provided family-style living for orphans and abandoned children around the globe since 1916. Kids Alive's impact worldwide includes residential homes for HIV/AIDS orphans in Kenya, war refugees in Sudan, and most recently earthquake orphans in Haiti.

Becky and Newsboys will be using their God-given talents to help bring attention to the plight of these orphans and encourage concert-goers to help provide for their care through child sponsorship. Becky and The Newsboys join other Kids Alive partner artists: Beckah Shae, Sevenglory, The Birdsongs, Jean Watson, Scarlet, JPT, and Sheldon Rhodes. These "artist ambassadors" are helping to rescue thousands of orphans and at-risk children in the name of Christ.
